$11 Million Set For Western Interstate

... GI-NORTH PLATTE FUNDS PLANNED

By Betty Person

Approximately $11 million is programmed this year and next for the Grand Island-North Platte segment of the Interstate Highway, it was learned Tuesday.

Gov. Ralph Brooks asked Acting State Engineer John Hossack about the availability of funds for the out-state project and received these figures:

-$550,000 will be set aside for planning and engineering between Grand Island and Lexington as soon as the Federal Bureau of Roads has approved the route location.

-$500,000 will be earmarked for right-of-way acquisition between Grand Island and Kearney in late fall, 1960.

Approximately $10 million will be programmed for construction between Grand Island and Kearney in 1961. The funds will be used for grading, structures and paving.

Robert Conrad, administrative assistant to Governor Ralph Brooks, said the plans are "dependent, of course, upon the influence of Congress, any administrative decisions of the Federal Bureau of Roads, and contract controls."

The fund availability also is contingent upon receiving federal aid at the continued level of $11-$12 million a year, he said.

Announcement of the fund availability was the latest development in the planning of Nebraska's Interstate Highway system following the Highway Advisory Commission's recommendation for the north route location of the Grand Island-North Platte segment.

Commission Chairman Ray Ogier of North Platte sent to the governor Tuesday for-

Booze Runners On AF Planes?

Boston (P) — U.S. Treasury agents are investigating the smuggling of millions of dollars worth of liquor into the country aboard U.S. Air Force planes, the Boston Traveler said Tuesday.

In Washington, a Treasury spokesman confirmed that customs agents have launched an investigation of alleged smuggling in such a manner.

The Washington spokesman said the liquor apparently is being brought into Grenier Air Force Base at Manchester, N.H. The Treasury refused further details while the probe is in progress.

The Traveler story said hundreds of Air Force officers and crewmen are involved. It added the smuggling extends to many military bases where overseas flights originate. The story quoted a Treasury source as saying:

"This is not a situation where a pilot or crew member brings back a bottle or two of whisky for himself or a friend. It involves, in many cases, tremendous amounts of liquor and other contraband. It has reached the stage where it is completely mal notice of the Commission's action.

Brooks is expected to announce shortly his decision on the highway location which has been the subject of bitter controversy for more than 3 years between those favoring a route north of the Platte River and those in favor of a southern location.

Men Tricked Way Into Apartment In Omaha

Omaha (P) — Mrs. Hermine Skriver of Omaha was robbed of an estimated $5,000 in cash and a large amount of jewelry Tuesday by two men who tricked their way into the Skriver apartment.

Mrs. Skriver, 61 years old, said one of the pieces of jewelry taken was a 20 carat diamond.

Later, Z. H. Skriver said the jewelry was worth at least between $75,000 and $100,000.

He said the loss, in addition to the diamond, included 38 and 25 carat topazes, two pearl earrings and a ring with 38 sapphires.

Skriver said gems worth $30,000 to $40,000 were left behind and commented "it apparently was too much for them to carry—too bulky."

Mrs. Skriver's husband was not at home when two neatly dressed men knocked on the door and said Mr. Skriver had been injured in an accident.

She let them in and one man drew a revolver and demanded "open your safe and give us your jewels."

Mrs. Skriver opened a small safe, and then was bound with a cord ripped from the blinds.

The men looted the safe and left. In a few minutes Mrs. Skriver succeeded in freeing herself from the cord and called the apartment building superintendent.

Senate Approves Funds To Fight Juvenile Crime

Washington (P) — The Senate Tuesday passed a bill to authorize $25 million of federal aid to combat the rising tide of juvenile delinquency.

The measure, which now goes to the House, would permit the government to spend $5 million a year for 5 years. Half of the money would be for demonstration projects and half for training personnel.

Bad Dream Drizzle Due To Disappear

Freezing drizzle and fog, which made eastern Nebraska roads a driver's nightmare, came to an end Wednesday morning.

Highways in the Lincoln-Omaha areas were reported covered with glaze ice, and slippery roads were reported as far west as Grand Island Tuesday.

Tuesday night temperatures turned melting roads into icy ones, extending the ice belt from the extreme northeast to the southern border in the eastern part of the state.

Wednesday's high readings are expected to range from 25 to 35 in the east, and from 35 to 45 in the west.

Scottsbluff recorded the state high reading Tuesday with a balmy 50-degree temperature, and Sidney recorded 40. Lincoln's high Tuesday was 28, after an overnight low of 20.

Light snow which was reported in extreme western Nebraska Tuesday, is predicted to continue in the extreme northeast Wednesday. Forecasters predict that another arctic high will be bringing colder temperatures into the state by Thursday.

Only 4 senators were on the floor when the bill was passed by voice vote.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.), floor manager of the bill, said that "modest federal assistance is needed to help out with a bad situation."

He said the problem of juvenile delinquency has been increasing steadily for 10 years and exists in rural areas as well as in big cities. "The time has come to deal with it nationally," he said.

Perils Raised

But Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) predicted that out of the measure "will spring another flowering bureaucracy." He said that once the federal government ventures into this field, it will never get out.

"This is a personal problem that has to be dealt with at the grass roots—in the home, the churches and the schools," Dirksen said.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, tried to cut the bill to a two-year program with spending limited to $1 million a year. His proposal was defeated.

A 59-year old Lincoln woman, who is scheduled to receive a bachelor's degree Saturday from the University of Nebraska, has some advice for today's college youth:

"Get your degree when you're young if you can," Mrs. Hazel Lyne said.

Further than that bit of advice and opinion she wouldn't venture, but on that subject she couldn't be more of an expert.

Mrs. Lyne, a housewife who has raised four children, started at the University in 1918. She was a full-time student for three semesters, then got married, and 42 years later received enough credits for a degree.

"It's been part time almost all the way," she said. "The only exception is 10 or 12 years when I raised my family."

Mrs. Lyne will receive an Arts and Science degree with a major in English and minors in philosophy and history. "I'm getting this degree for personal satisfaction, of course," she said, "but it is also because I like young people and like to un-

Goldwater Pleads For More 'Republicanism'

... ALSO PRAISES CURTIS'S COURAGE

By Don Walton

Omaha — "It isn't that we are Republican that we've lost. The difficulty is that we have not been Republican enough."

That is what Sen. Barry Goldwater — the champion of conservative Republicanism — told more than 1,250 Nebraska Republicans at a giant fund raising dinner here Tuesday night.

The Arizona senator jabbed at Democratic "fiscal craziness," stoutly defended Nebraska senator Carl Curtis, and praised the "course of President Eisenhower's leadership, particularly in the last year."

World Court Hit

However, Goldwater lashed at proposals to enlarge the power of the World Court by removing previous U.S. reservations as to its compulsory jurisdiction.

"Staunchest supporter of such a move is Eisenhower himself who urged congressional action in his State of the Union address."

"World peace in preserved today by the strength of the United States, and the United States will preserve its strength by maintaining its sovereignty and not surrendering any portion of it," Goldwater contended.

Dollar Problem

The senator pointed to "what is happening to our dollar" as America's overriding domestic problem.

Goldwater praised Curtis for his "courageous" work on the Senate Labor Rackets Investigating Committee.

As for organized labor's opposition to Curtis's re-election this fall, Goldwater noted:

"The same team came into my state to beat me in 1958. I hope they keep coming back. They sure did me a lot of good."

Goldwater also threw a barb at former President Harry S. Truman.

Nixon Not Cinch

"All we have to do is tell the truth about Harry," he said.

However, the senator pointed out that the election this fall of Vice President Richard Nixon is "not a cinch."

Curtis, in brief remarks, said: "spenders, do-gooders and Walter Reuther's are leading America down the road to state socialism and bankruptcy."

Republican conservatism must be employed to "save America," Curtis said.

National committeeman Don Ross described the event as "the largest political fund raising dinner in Nebraska history." Nearly 1,600 tickets were sold at $50 a plate.

he was not told until he had left the operating room.

Missile Teams Net Successes

Washington (UPI) — The U.S. Tuesday scored one of its busiest days in space and missile activities, including the successful firing of two Atlas ICBM missiles.

The feats also included rocketing instruments 600 miles over Wallops Island, Va., to record space "noise" and the firing of a Redstone missile rated as combat-ready.

Both Sharpe and Gen. White conceded Russian missile and other weapons advances represent a threat—"increasingly pressing, diversified . . . and ominous," White termed it.

After the briefing, Russell agreed that Strategic Air Command bombers now form "the greatest striking force on earth."

But Russell said he has not been convinced by administration leaders that there is no missile gap.

4 Found Murdered In Surgeon's Home

North Brunswick, N.J. (UPI) — A surgeon's wife, two women servants and a taxicab driver were found trussed up and shot to death Tuesday in the doctor's fashionable house.

Police hunted a man seen leaving the house in a taxicab.

More than 10 hours after the multiple killings, a small army of investigators had failed to turn up a motive.

The dead included Mrs. Edith Clarke, about 60, invalid wife of Dr. Francis M. Clarke; Mrs. Dorothy Moore, an elderly practical nurse and companion of Mrs. Clarke; Mrs. Cora Jones Thadie, 29, a part-time maid, and cabby Morris Michael, 55, of Newark, N.J.

An autopsy disclosed the 4 had been shot once in the head with a 32-caliber automatic. There was no evidence of sexual molestation.

News of the slayings reached the hospital while Dr. Clarke was operating, but

School Boundaries Changed

Better Enrollment Distribution

By Germaine Deal

School district boundary changes approved by the Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday are expected to improve enrollment distribution to some extent at several Lincoln schools.

According to Supt. Steven Watkins, the changes, effective Sept. 1, 1960, will affect only new junior high students, and not those enrolled in a junior high school prior to next fall.

The exception is Dawes Junior High, where some students in the Northeast Junior High district attending Dawes will be required to transfer to Northeast.

The changes included setting boundaries for Robin Mickle Junior High (see map).

The boundary changes include:

—Elimination of the present boundary between Dawes Junior High School and Lincoln Northeast Junior High School, and the establishment of a new boundary between Charles Culler Junior High and Dawes.

Beginning at 33rd and Leighton, east on Leighton to 48th, south on 48th to Garland, and east of Garland to 52nd.

—Enlargement of the Millard Lefler district by changing a portion of the present boundary between the Lincoln Southeast Junior High School and the Millard Lefler Junior High School.

Beginning at 39th and Normal Blvd., southeast on Normal to 40th, south on 40th to Antelope Creek, and southeast on Antelope Creek to 70th.

Alteration of a portion of the boundary between Calvert and Holmes elementary school beginning at 63rd and Van Dorn, east on Van Dorn to 70th.

—Enlargement of the Merle Beattie district by changing a portion of the boundary between the Calvert and Merle Beattie elementary schools as follows:

Beginning at 27th and Pioneers Blvd., east on Pioneers to the CRI&P Railroad tracks, northeast on the tracks to Calvert and west on Calvert to 27th.

PTA Helping At Crossing

Members of the Riley School Parent-Teachers Assn. are taking turns in assisting 87 Riley School pupils in crossing 48th Street at Dudley to and from school.

Although there is a manually-operated signal at the crossing, one mother pointed out that due to the speed limit of the street, many motorists do not see it.

The mothers are reporting license plate numbers of those disobeying the light to the police, who are co-operating in the project.

The police, in turn, are calling the reported persons regarding the incident. However, no formal arrests can be made.

Eye New Plan For Guarding Voting Rights

Washington (AP) — The Eisenhower administration has proposed that federal judges be empowered to appoint referees to protect Negro voting rights in all elections, state as well as federal.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers unveiled the plan as an alternative to the federal registrar arrangement recommended by the Civil Rights Commission last September for federal elections.

Both plans are designed to meet complaints that local election officials in some Southern areas prevent qualified Negroes from voting. Both would require congressional action.

One important difference is that the Rogers plan would extend federal supervision into state elections, and another is that it would not require any new set of voter registrars.

Eligibles Certified

The federal referees could issue certificates of eligibility to persons they found to be qualified to vote. Election officials refusing to recognize such a certificate might be prosecuted for contempt of court.

The attorney general said Chairman John A. Hannah of the Civil Rights Commission was very pleased with the new proposal. Rogers said it was entirely within the spirit of the commission's registrar proposal, the constitutionality of which Eisenhower has said is open to question.

The registrar plan has been under consideration by the Senate Rules Committee.

Rogers said he felt it would be much better for federal judges, rather than the Civil Rights Commission, to make determinations as to voter discrimination.

Ike's Policy: No Cuba Reprisals

TOUGHER STAND MAY BE TAKEN

... Castro Rebuked

Washington (P) — President Eisenhower laid down Tuesday a policy of no intervention and no reprisals at this time against Cuba despite intrigues and unwarranted attacks on the United States by Fidel Castro.

But Eisenhower left the way open for a tougher stand and specific action later on, if he sees a need. And, in what amounted to a solid rebuke of Castro, as diplomatic language goes, he drew a distinct line between the Cuban prime minister and the Cuban people.

The President spoke of a continuing great affection of the American people for the Cuban people—but he had no kind words for Castro.

At a presidential news conference which ranged over space, military intelligence, politics and a presidential diary, Cuba was the top topic. It was the subject, too, of a formal presidential restatement of U.S. policy handed to newsmen as they left the conference room.

Some Back Communism

The policy statement wound up going further in a single sentence than the administration ever has before in spelling out a belief among Eisenhower advisers that some Cuban leaders sympathize with communism and embrace its views.

"I should like only to add," Eisenhower said, "that the United States government has confidence in the ability of the Cuban people to recognize and defeat the intrigues of international communism which are aimed at destroying democratic institutions in Cuba and the traditional and mutually beneficial friendship between the Cuban and American peoples."

Speaking informally, in his question and answer session with newsmen, the chief executive said "the American people still have the greatest affection and the greatest interest in the Cuban people."

"We are not going to be a party to reprisals or anything of that kind," he added. "At this moment it is not our time to do it, and certainly we are not going to intervene in their internal affairs."

31 Perish In Korean Stampede

Seoul (P) — A human stampede trampled 31 Koreans, including 11 children, to death Tuesday night at a railway station in Seoul. Forty-nine persons were injured, some seriously.

The human mass of travelers bound for the country to celebrate the lunar new year piled up at the foot of a staircase leading to a train platform.

Railway officials said one person apparently tripped and started the pileup.

Many victims were domestic maids headed for family reunions on their once-a-year vacation. All of the dead children were under 10.

Last July, 68 persons were killed and 100 injured in a similar incident when spectators at an outdoor show in Pusan fled for cover from a sudden rain storm.

The passengers were rushing to catch the last night train to Mokpo, a seaport in southwest Korea.

Some 2,300 people finally boarded the train that left two hours behind schedule.

Local Legionnaire Club Buys Italian Village For $185,000

Officials of the Legionnaire Club Inc. of Lincoln announced Tuesday the purchase of the Italian Village building at Cotter Blvd. and O for $185,000.

In announcing the purchase Loran C. Cottrell, club president, said the club would be moved from its present location at 1525 P to the new location by or before June 1.

The building at 1525 P will be put up for sale according to Cottrell.

The sale agreement calls for Tony Domino, owner of the Italian Village, to remove a house and garage occupying part of the 193 by 140 ft. area.

Removal of the buildings will add parking accommodations for about 150 more cars Cottrell said.

He noted that the new building would give the club approximately 4 times as much floor space as the present building. Included in the purchase was all the equipment and furnishing in the building he added.

The 5,200 members of the Lincoln American Legion Post are automatically members of the Legionnaire Club, Inc.

Can Conflict Be Eliminated?

BY WILLIAM O. DOBLER

As the Interstate Highway issue continues to run its course, one wonders if it would be humanly possible to arrive at the point where controversy and delay could be eliminated from the program. Some thoughtful people have gone back to a second look at a full-time Highway Commission as a possible answer to the highway problems which seem to befall us from time to time.

But when you cast about for a cure to the state's highway ills you will do well to keep in mind the human element involved.

The Human Element

It is a fact, for instance, that no kind of organization could have eliminated the dispute over location of the Interstate in the Grand Island to North Platte area. This issue could not be eliminated because the issue itself gets down in the final analysis to one of human judgment — should the road go north or south of the Platte River? In this issue and in the entire Interstate picture we find a conflict of philosophies and this conflict would not be resolved with any governmental organization, regardless of how good or bad it is.

There is one philosophy which states that the highway should go where it will serve the most people, including local traffic movement. The other philosophy dictates that the highway be constructed for the needs of transcontinental travelers. In the first philosophy, extensiveness of use is the first consideration and total mileage is the second consideration.

In the second philosophy, total mileage of the route is of primary importance and extent of use in any single area is secondary. Any governmental unit may make a decision on this and such a decision, in favor of the first philosophy, has been made in Nebraska.

Such a decision, however, does not eliminate the voicing of a dissenting opinion by groups and individuals whose interests lie in the opposite direction. In other words, the human element has not and cannot be eliminated. This does not mean that decisions on such things as the route north or south of the Platte cannot be speeded up but it does mean that a change in the administrative setup is not going to eliminate controversy. We will have controversy if we

A Rose By Any Other Name

It is clear that the Eisenhower administration will make strong efforts to get Congress to remove the 4½ per cent interest ceiling on long term government bonds. And until lately it was equally clear that a majority in Congress would resist as it did in the last session.

The administration, which prefers to deal with effects rather than causes, wants a higher rate of interest because it is no longer able to sell low yielding bonds. The fact that its policies favored tight money and higher yields is being swept under the carpet, as are suggestions to reverse the policies and get at the problem at the source.

But now an element in the House has come up with a compromise proposal which is probably worse than the administration's non-ceiling proposal. It would retain the in-

Program Built By People

The federally sponsored school lunch program has a low pressure history.

It started as an incidental activity in the depression when food was a drug on the market, but still far out of reach for the jobless family. Three birds were killed with one stone when surplus commodities were converted to school lunches. Childhood diet took on the needed calories when they were urgently demanded, a portion of the commodities surplus was absorbed and the public cost of relief was thereby lessened.

Despite its real merits the lunch program waned as full employment returned and it was only comparatively recently that it began to return to major proportions. Significantly enough, the motive force is no longer depression but rather a grass roots approval of a program that is accepted as sound and worthy.

He Lived For Others

With the death of Professor Willard B. Cowles, the Law College at the University of Nebraska lost a distinguished member of its faculty. At the same time, law students of the future lost an inspirational friend and the world lost the dedicated spirit of a man who knew the true meaning of the word "international."

It was in the field of international law that Professor Cowles won the acclaim and respect of so many of his colleagues and men of state within the framework of government. In the pursuit of the objectives of this area of the law as he saw them, Professor Cowles became known and well acquainted with many of the leading legal minds of this nation and in Europe.

It was his legal work which laid the foundation or groundwork for the Nurem-have the most gold-plated administrative setup you can imagine.

The organization of Greater Nebraska Interstate, Inc., is a good example of this. The group, composed of people from Lincoln and cities to the west, could be a constructive force in the entire Nebraska highway picture but they are not headed in that direction at this time. Part of the reason we will always have controversy and part of the reason GNI will have difficulty is the fact that too many positions are taken without sufficient study and reflection.

This group seeks to delay work on Interstate Route 3 through downtown Omaha so that the money can be spent on the Interstate outstate. For one thing, this is in conflict with the philosophy which builds first for extensive use. If this philosophy is to be fought—and there seems to be good reason for doing so—it should be fought on the federal more than the state level.

Secondly, officials state that Route 3 funds would simply be lost to Nebraska if not spent in Omaha because no other area of the state is ready or can be gotten ready soon enough to use the funds before they lapse. Thirdly, these same state officials report that the Omaha project is not and will not hold up work on the Interstate in other areas.

Thus, the GNI is concerning itself with something on which the group is shadow boxing while the details of any contest have not even yet become clear. The best administrative setup in the world could not prevent such developments as these. The best thing for the highway situation in Nebraska would be an administration which attempted to explain fully to the public everything it did and in sufficient time for the consideration of adverse points of view.

This can be done under present arrangements as well as under any Highway Commission. What would likely happen with a commission is that once adverse opinion was made known, a decision would never be made. A commission could give us far less by way of highway construction than we have today and what we would get could be a lot worse.

Here are the highlights of what happened behind Democratic senate closed doors:

Sen. Lister Hill, the charming elder statesman from Alabama, in the past a strong advocate of broad aid to education and a potent crusader for the nation's health, outlined his reasons for wanting to restrict aid to education. Specifically he wanted to bar aid for teachers' salaries, confine the bill chiefly to school construction as well as had they been sold without a rate ceiling.

This is a very transparent device which offers no real resistance to mounting cost of money. It would get the same result by devious means that is to say, the effect on the inflationary swing would be the same.

revealed that contributions to the program last year hit $985.4 million, exceeding the year before by $100 million. This year the AMS expects an increase of 15 per cent in the number of participating children. It might be pointed out here that the program is more local and personal than federal. Last year state and local contributions amounted to $708.4 million while federal contribution of food and money added up to $276 million.

The federal government does not expect to increase its contribution this year, but the public will move forward anyway. And how far it already has moved is shown by impressive participation figures. There are 12,800 schools taking part and 12.8 million children receiving lunches.

The lunch program indicates that the nation's vexing food surplus has some silver linings. Without the abundance the lunch program could not exist.

berg war trials of 1946, and for his efforts in this cause he was awarded the Legion of Merit. For a time he was the deputy legal advisor of the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. He received the American Bar Association Ross Prize essay award, was at the time of his death a consultant on the Bar's World Rule of Law project and was active in a number of professional organizations. Not quite completed at the time of his death was a definitive case book on international law. It is hoped that the final touches to this unique and monumental work can soon be given by another contributor and the book published.

But Professor Cowles was most at home in the classroom. It was here that he found the rewards he treasured in the stimulation and cultivation of young minds. In his teaching he gave a life to the law that the years will never even dim. He held in highest regard that philosophy of education which calls for the training of the mind into avenues of continual exploration and enlightenment. He fully believed that man's work was never really done and attempted to acquaint his students with true meaning of the responsibility that is to be theirs as a result of the knowledge they acquire.

His success at this is mirrored in the words of one of his students who has said that "Professor Cowles dedicated the major portion of his life to teaching the young men of America in a field which is so broad that it encompasses the entire world and the air space above it . . . His students recognized him as a man of many talents many of which have yet to be solved. His class in international law at the university expressed a sincere desire that his works and endeavors shall continue so the ends of world peace and understanding can be accomplished."

Church Opposition To Education Aid

Church Opposition

To Education Aid

WASHINGTON — The issue of Catholic opposition to broad federal aid to education, not often debated publicly, came up for vigorous comment at the first regular caucus of Democratic senators last week.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas this winter has bowed to criticism that Texas runs the Senate and is staging closed-door caucuses at which Democratic senators can help formulate their party's strategy. Lyndon handled the discussion with complete fairness and it proved stimulating.

Here are the highlights of what happened behind Democratic senate closed doors:

Sen. Lister Hill, the charming elder statesman from Alabama, in the past a strong advocate of broad aid to education and a potent crusader for the nation's health, outlined his reasons for wanting to restrict aid to education. Specifically he wanted to bar aid for teachers' salaries, confine the bill chiefly to school construction as well as had they been sold without a rate ceiling.

Hill's reasons were: 1. Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas and House Democratic Leader John McCormack of Boston would not pass a bill which included anything more than school construction. 2. That the House Rules Committee would block anything but a restricted bill; 3. That there was a big body of opinion opposed to any form of aid to education.

The fact that the proposed aid to education bill barring teachers' salaries was drafted by highly respected Sens. Pat McNamara and Phil Hart of Detroit, both Catholics, did not enter the discussion. Their senate colleagues do not attribute omission of teacher salaries from their bill to any church influence. Sen. John Kennedy also favors aid for school construction only.

Demos Shed No

Light On Choice

WASHINGTON — Democrats are a talkative race who never keep their intentions secret if they know them. In their fund-raising week end just concluded, they showed that their presidential intentions are still a mystery to them.

Thus they continue to build suspense as the zero hour at Los Angeles approaches. Nor did the individual performances of the candidates suggest much that is new.

Senator Hubert Humphrey remains an engaging example of a natural-born baby-kisser, the candidate who is having the best time and communicating the most fun to his audience.

Senator John Kennedy is hardening and cooling as he toils toward the immense objective he has set himself. He need worry no longer that he will seem too youthful under the klieg lights of the convention, and it will not be a matter of his new haircut.

Shop talk about primaries revealed a wide expectation that Kennedy, if he has any luck at all in Wisconsin, will go into California and force a fight on Gov. Edmund (Pat) Brown. Humphrey has promised to follow Kennedy in, if that move materializes.

Nothing short of a Kennedy landslide will give the Wisconsin primary much impact on the party. The truth is that the politicians don't like that one, a major reason being that Republicans can cross over and influence the outcome materially. It is in part because they feel this way about Wisconsin that they expect Kennedy to risk California, where the stakes are so much bigger.

MARQUIS CHILDS

De Gaulle Uncertain Of Army

WASHINGTON — Those who have hoped against hope that General Charles De Gaulle would act decisively in Algeria before it was too late must not follow the struggle to maintain law and order in hate-torn North Africa with the belief that the Army will put down the European extremists.

The mystery is why De Gaulle waited so long for a showdown that was inevitable. He waited until General Jacques Massu, in command in Algiers, had virtually defied his authority in an interview in which he intimated that the Army was ready to reject De Gaulle.

Something like the massive riots, precipitated by the dismissal of Massu, were bound to come when De Gaulle, as president of France, finally asserted his authority. The power of the settlers has grown each time they have been appeased by Paris. On May 13, 1958, these violent extremists, supported by the Army and generals such as Massu, overthrew the Fourth Republic and brought De Gaulle to power.

In a sense, he has been their prisoner. Or, to put it another way, he gave the appearance of being their prisoner so long as he failed to face up to the veto they constantly threatened to exercise by political extremism and violence. Bravely, last September 16 De Gaulle issued his declaration of the right of self-determination for Algeria, and then as the months passed nothing happened and the tensions increased.

In deference to De Gaulle, the May summit will be held in Paris rather than in Geneva, where all facilities for such a conference are expertly and compactly assembled. It will be difficult to duplicate these facilities in Paris with an army of reporters from all over the world let loose in the French capital as the tourists begin to pour in.

The French were deeply offended when the United States abstained rather than voted against the Asian-African resolution on Algeria in the United Nations. This resolution had been watered down, in part through American efforts. In retrospect, the abstention seems a little foolish, since it deeply offended the French and probably meant little gain in the Asian-African bloc. But these questions are not easy to resolve with France and the alliance on the one hand and the explosion of nationalism in Africa on the other.

It is up to De Gaulle now to act with decisiveness. He can carry his September 16 declaration one step further and bring representatives of the Moslem rebels, who speak for the national front of liberation, to Paris for cease-fire talks. If in this way the long and terrible war in Algeria can be brought to an end, De Gaulle will begin to redeem the promise inherent in his coming to power.

He has everything to gain and little to lose by putting down the extremists. Yet when this is said, the fact remains that French blood has been spilled in Algiers, and that will weigh heavily in the emotional scales.

There is a rough analogy between President De Gaulle and Algiers and President Eisenhower and Little Rock. The American President persisted in believing, as the school issue boiled up, that it could somehow be compromised without decisive action on his part. When naked violence was close, he had to take the extreme step of calling in federal troops.

It was with an enormous sense of relief that most Frenchmen saw De Gaulle come to power under a constitution giving him great authority. He was the hero-leader, the first citizen who had spoken with a clear, courageous voice during France's agony in 1940 and after. De Gaulle would end the fumbling uncertainty of the years since 1945 and restore France to greatness.

But, as he has shown that he knows little about government and less about politics, confidence in him has receded.

From his lonely eminence in the Elysee Palace he has often said one thing while his premier, Michel Debre, has said something quite different.

Aluminum Cooking

Lincoln, Neb.

Regarding the letter signed "Disgusted" in the Jan. 22 Star, might it not be possible that certain persons could be allergic to aluminum? Some medical doctors, among them Arthur F. Coca, Leo Spira, F. Von Halla, E. H. Rink, and others, found that they have been able to effect complete cures in some cases of constipation, flatulence, colicky pain, impairment of appetite, nausea, skin ailments, neuralgia, twitching of legs, giddiness, excessive perspiration, loss of energy, gastric disturbances, abdominal pain, colitis, etc., simply by having the patients discontinue eating food which had been cooked in aluminum utensils.

The Canadian Journal of Research, Vol. 21, Section C, reports that roses hips boiled for 15 minutes in an aluminum vessel showed an appreciable loss of vitamin C, while that cooked in glass or enamel showed practically no loss.

The University of Colorado reports in "Food Technology," Dec., 1951, that cold orange juice dissolved 37 parts per million of the aluminum of the pot in which it was contained.

De Gaulle Algeria Policy Threatens Paris Cabinet

Paris (UPI) — Informed sources said Tuesday night that at least 5 French government ministers — including Premier Michel Debre — had threatened to quit in the deepening crisis caused by the assumption of near-dictatorship.

With his government threatening to fall apart, sources said, President de Gaulle was considering the assumption of near-dictatorship as a last resort to safeguard his 5th republic regime.

De Gaulle had the power to do so under the new Constitution which permits him in a crisis to dismiss Parliament and rule by personal decree.

The situation was reported to have been forced on the president by the threatened disintegration of his government over his method of handling the settlers' revolt in Algeria.

The angry settlers in Algeria spread their anti-de Gaulle demonstrations through 9 cities. While several thousand of them held their fortress-like barricades in Algiers, others erupted into noisy, but bloodless outbursts in such key centers as Oran, Orléansville, Bone and Constantine. A few army officers came out in support of their cause.

An army broadcast from the interior, carried by the government-controlled Algiers Radio network, said "the pure flame of patriotism has flared up from the emplacement of insurrection."

"The barricade no longer separates but unites," it said. "It has become the link of unity between the civilians . . . and the military."

Seacrest referred to the difference in figures or Omaha Interstate mileage as "one of semantics," saying that the Highway Department had given the "21 to 22 mile" figure for "greater Omaha" (one to 36 blocks from the city limits.)

Seacrest wired the governor asking if he would make a statement that "at no time has The Lincoln Journal opposed the routes or the construction of the Interstate Highway system in Omaha" although it had been "vigorous in opposing" priority for the downtown Omaha segment.

'Begin By Retracting'

Brooks wrote Seacrest Tuesday, "In the interest of fair play and straightening out the record, I suggest you begin by retracting the statements made by your newspaper relative to the transfer of funds for the Interstate Highway."

"In addition to the transfer of funds," Brooks continued, "the misrepresentation by your paper of the number of interchanges and mileage of the city route in Omaha should be corrected."

"You polled the 43 state legislators on the question whether 23 interchanges and 3 bridges in Omaha should be built before the Interstate Highway across the state."

"Actually, when the entire Omaha Interstate system is completed in 1975, there will be 9 interchanges within the city. The '21 to 22 Omaha miles' of Interstate reported by your paper Nov. 26 compares with 6 miles shown by the executive committee of the Nebraska New Car Dealers Association issued a policy statement Tuesday disclaiming any intention of taking a stand on Interstate Highway controversies.

In a letter to all members of the association, Floyd Pohlman of Auburn, president, said this policy statement was unanimously approved by the executive committee:

"Our association in the past has never taken part in partisan politics or taken a position regarding any individual's candidacy. This policy will be continued."

"Likewise, as an association, we have not nor do we intend to take any stand or give assistance to any organization with reference to the Interstate highway. This will pertain to its location, the allocation of funds, or the priority of its construction."

Pohlman said the letter was sent to "clear up any misunderstanding of our position as a result of rumors or newspaper publicity" concerning the controversy over Interstate matters.

License Transfer Hearing Set Feb. 9

A public hearing has been set for Feb. 9 on a proposal to transfer the beer license now held by the operator of the Skylane Club at 56th and Cornhusker to a new location.

Atty. Norman Kirosha told the County Board Tuesday that the club operator, Anthony Pusateri, wants to open a new establishment at 32nd and Adams.

Kirosha said Ford Van Line, which now leases space to Skylane, has informed Pusateri that it needs the club space by May 1 for expansion purposes.

Dems, GOP Split Sharply On U.S. Economic Gains

... Reports Amount To Campaign Documents

Washington (P)—The Senate-House Economic Committee came up Tuesday with two campaign documents—one for the Democrats and one for the Republicans.

The committee's majority report, signed by Democrats, deplored almost every economic action taken by the Eisenhower administration since it went into office 7 years ago.

The Democrats said critically that the Gross National Products had climbed 4.6% yearly during the 6 years of the Truman administration, but had been stunted to a growth of 2.3 annually since 1953.

In reply, the Republicans making up the committee minority said the opposition had jiggled dates and figures to make everything seem as black as possible for the GOP and as good as possible for the Democrats.

Boon Days, Republicans Say

The Republicans complained that the Truman era figures used by the majority covered the booming days after World War II and much of the high-spending Korean War period.

Major recommendations in the majority report were:

A new approach to the farm problem, based on paying subsidies to farmers; a major federal program of aid to education; help from Washington for industrially depressed areas; tax revision; more liberal foreign trade policies; more vigorous prosecution of anti-trust cases.

The farm subsidy plan calls for giving the farmer, out of federal funds, enough money to cover the difference between the market price and 85% of parity. Parity means a level considered fair in relation to farmer's costs.

Gates Given Speedy OK As Defense Boss

Washington (UPI) — The Senate, with surprising swiftness, Tuesday approved the appointment of Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates Jr., who has come under Democratic fire for his estimates of Russian missile strength.

Only two senators were present when the action was taken. Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex) read Gates' name from a long list of nominations. Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill) listened and approval was automatic when there were no objections.

Gates has been serving under recess appointment since Neil H. McElroy resigned from the post late last year.

Johnson said Monday that consideration of the nomination was being postponed at the request of some senators who wanted more information concerning U.S. and Russian military might.

'ALL SHE HAD WAS TALENT' Diana Barrymore's Life Reflected In Her Death

New York (AP)—In death as in life, Diana Barrymore remained an enigma Tuesday. An autopsy failed to determine the cause of her sudden death and further tests were ordered.

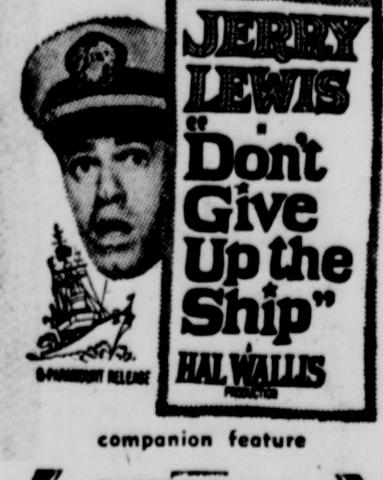

Her beauty and talent ravaged by drink and dissipation, Miss Barrymore was found dead in bed Monday in her East 61st St. apartment. She was 38.

"She was a bad little girl," said her stepmother, one-time screen beauty Dolores Costello, a former wife of Diana's father, stage immortal John Barrymore.

Diana herself summed up her life in her autobiography, "Too Much, Too Soon."

Nobody, however, could probe the dark depths of her soul to discover why she

Liquor License Holder Cited For Misrepresentation

The holder of a liquor license in Omaha was cited by the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission Tuesday for representing himself as a state inspector in someone else's licensed premises.

The commission set a hearing for Feb. 24 on the possible suspension or revocation of the retail Class C liquor license held by John C. Hoich.

The commission said that on or about Dec. 1, in the licensed premises at 1623 N. 24th St. owned and operated by Lilian Weinstein, Hoich falsely represented himself to be a duly qualified inspector of the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission.

The commission charged Hoich with failing to observe in good faith, the intent and purpose of the Nebraska Liquor Control Act.

"It may be a accidental overdose of sleeping pills," said Police Inspector Joseph McLaughlin. "We don't know."

It might have been Diana's heart, too, subjected to years of abuse from sleeping pills, "pep" pills and drink. Her physician had treated her for chest pains but she had no history of heart trouble.

Diana hit the depths in 1955 after the death of her third husband, Robert Wilcox. She entered an institution for alcoholism. After 8 weeks she emerged and for a time it looked like she had won her fight against drink. She even managed a modest stage comeback with the help of playwright Tennessee Williams.

Petitions seeking the creation of the Salt-Wahoo Watershed District will be filed Wednesday with the Lancaster County Clerk.

Robert Crosby, secretary-counsel of the sponsoring district, said Tuesday that the "petition signature response has far exceeded expectations."

Petition filing requires the signatures of 5 freeholders in a majority (92) of the 181

precincts in the proposed district.

Crosby had no estimate of the number secured except

"we've got a basketful."

He said signature-seeking campaign wouldn't end

Wednesday but would continue right to the time the county board has its hearing.

Association officials have indicated a goal of 10,000 names.

It is anticipated the hearing date on the petitioned watershed district will be held soon after February 26 by the Lancaster County Board.

(Hearing is held in the county having the largest area in the proposed district.)

Next step after the public hearing would be placement of the issue on the May 10

primary ballot.

The opinion said that the second member moving into the precinct in which the hospital is located vacates his office as a board member.

Western Safflower Future Said Bright

Agronomist Urges Additional Research On Grain Sorghums

Scottsbluff (P) — Prospects for future production of safflower in western Nebraska are encouraging, farmers attending the annual Crop Improvement Days here were told Tuesday.

Al Hoffman of Pacific Oil-seeds, Inc., Fresno, Calif., said the oil from safflower has been well accepted industrially for use in paints and varnishes, in the manufacture of alkyd resin, and more.

Group Selects Bayard Man

Scottsbluff (P) — The Nebraska Crop Improvement Assn. Tuesday wound up, what officials termed the largest convention in the association's history, with the election of officers.

C. J. Ramig of Bayard was elected president. Named as vice president was Honor M.

Ramig

Ochsner of Madison. Willard Waldo of DeWitt was re-elected treasurer.

Two new directors were selected. They were Lynn Wallen of McCook and Ralph Schroeder of Elwood.

The 1961 meeting of the association will be held in Lincoln. Officials termed the two-day Scottsbluff meeting the best in attendance.

Lincoln Architects Hired For Gage Courthouse Work

Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — The Gage County Board of Supervisors has retained the architectural firm of Arter and Speece of Lincoln to develop plans for the eventual resuming of courthouse operations.

Board Chairman August Grall said the firm was among 4 considered for the project.

The architects will make engineering studies of the fire-gutted courthouse and eventually will provide cost estimates for the alternatives of its restoration or of replacement with a new building. The studies are expected to require several weeks.

The chairman had indicated earlier that both possibilities will be presented voters, presumably in the May primary. The board itself will make no recommendation as to which course should be followed, he stated.

recently for edible purposes. He said greater markets for safflower products can be developed which will require an acreage many times the size of the 1959 crop.

Safflower is one of the oldest crops known to man but is a relatively new crop in this country. The acreage has gradually increased each year. Hoffman estimated that more than 250,000 acres were grown last year, mostly in California, Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana and North Dakota.

Research on safflower began in 1940 at the University of Nebraska and is now being conducted by several other universities, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and private companies.

Fringe Area?

Dr. O. J. Webster, research agronomist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture stationed at the University of Nebraska, called for additional research on grain sorghums to discover breeding material which has seed that will germinate and make normal seedling growth when planted in cold soils in western Nebraska the middle of May. He said western Nebraska is a "fringe" area for grain sorghum production because of temperature conditions.

"Nevertheless, when early varieties are planted and when soil moisture has been adequate for normal growth, good yields of grain sorghums have been obtained at Alliance," said Webster.

Sorghum in western Nebraska should be surface planted in a well prepared seedbed about June 1.

"Alfalfa is a forage crop that is here to stay," Dr. William Kehr, U.S. Department of Agriculture regional coordinator for alfalfa research stationed at NU, told the group.

"While we have frequently heard that commercially produced nitrogen would eventually replace legumes in that feeding hay is obsolete, the U.S. alfalfa acreage in 1957 was 15% of the 1946-55 average," he added.

Nebraska produced about 40% of the total U.S. output of dehydrated alfalfa in 1958, the USDA researcher noted.

Fremont's New School In Use

Fremont — Fremont's new $1,900,000-plus high school opened here this week with an enrollment of 670 students.

The spacious building includes the first high school cafeteria at Fremont.

The old building, built during World War I, will be renamed the Administration Building and will house a student overflow from the junior high.

3 Scherers Attending Midland

The Scherers are going to Midland College at Fremont in force. They are represented in 3 of the 4 classes and on the college staff. Assistant Librarian Henry Scherer, standing, watched his son, Jim, center, and two daughters, Ruth, at left, and Mary, register for 2nd semester classes this week. Another son, Paul, is a graduate. The Rev. Mr. Scherer is also an alumnus of Midland. (Photo Special to The Star)

GOP Political Rally At Sidney Expected To Attract Near 350

Lincoln Star Special Sidney — One of the biggest political rallies ever held in western Nebraska will be held in Sidney Wednesday night with more than a dozen top national and state GOP, and Young Republican officials scheduled to appear.

Main speaker at the 11 Panhandle county "Salute to Eisenhower" dinner will be Fred G. Aandahl, former governor of North Dakota who is presently assistant secretary of the interior in Washington. He will be introduced by Sen. Roman Hruska (R-Neb.).

Others who definitely will attend include State Senator John Cooper of Humboldt, who has filed for the GOP nomination for governor, and State GOP Chairman Charles Thome of Lincoln.

Ashburn To Attend

Richie Ashburn, Nebraska chairman of the Young Republican Clubs and twice National League batting champ, will also make an appearance. A Tilden, Neb., native, he is slated to speak at a Kimball father-son banquet Wednesday night but will arrive in Sidney later this evening.

Approximately 300-350 persons are expected for the $10 a plate fund-raising dinner.

Arraignment On Murder Charge Faces Kopetka

St. Paul, Minn. (P) — The Ramsey County Grand Jury Tuesday returned a 3rd degree murder indictment against Charles T. Kopetka, 43, chicken killer and knife sharpener, for the fatal stabbing of his estranged wife.

Mrs. Kopetka, 28, the mother of 7 children, died after she was stabbed 3 times with a boning knife. Her mother, Mrs. Cora J. Opsal, 58, suffered 3 abdominal knife wounds in the attack early Christmas day.

County Atty. William Randal said Kopetka would be arraigned on the murder charge either Wednesday or Thursday.

Kopetka cut his left wrist, severing the tendons, after the attack on his wife and mother-in-law. He and his wife had been separated since Nov. 22. He formerly lived in Nebraska and worked in a poultry house here.

Karen Rogers is the state teen chairman for the 1960 March of Dimes.

Karen Rogers On TV Program

Ashland — Karen Rogers, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rogers of Ashland, will appear on the television program "This Is Your Life" Wednesday night.

Karen is the state teen chairman for the 1960 March of Dimes.

Stock Feeders To Hear Brock

Omaha (P) — Rep. Larry Brock (D-Neb.) Wakefield, congressman from the Third Nebraska District, will speak at a luncheon session of the Corn Belt Livestock Feeders Assn. convention in Kansas City Feb. 11.

Brock was one of the association's organizers and its first president.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline non-abrasive powder on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere.

Ag Groups Reach Basic Agreement

...On Wheat Program, Says Bruns

Washington — Basic agreement on concepts for the wheat program was reported to the Nebraska Congressional delegation Tuesday.

Carl Bruns, Chappell, Neb., president of the National Assn. of Wheat Growers, told the group "we have worked out a program that has agreement and blessing of the Farmers Union and the National Grange."

Representatives of the farm groups have been meeting here for about 10 days on the situation. Bruns said basic agreement on principles and concepts of the program is contingent upon final action after it is drafted into legislative form for presentation to Congress.

The proposal would direct the Secretary of Agriculture to determine the total quantity of wheat to be used for domestic consumption and export for the next marketing year, and then to set a national quota for producers which would be 150 million bushels or less.

"It would short the market," Bruns explained, "in order to deplete government stocks."

The quota for this primary use wheat would be allocated among individual producers. Before the start of the marketing year, each qualifying producer would be issued marketing certificates for his share of this quota.

To qualify, a producer must put a minimum 20% of the wheat base acreage in whatever land retirement or conservation program may be available.

Stapleton (P) — A delegation from the Highway 92 Assn. will meet with Gov. Ralph Brooks and the state engineer Friday afternoon to discuss Highway 92 improvements. Secretary-Treasurer Elmer I. Stephens of Stapleton said Tuesday.

Stephens said the conference will be about improvements which have already been promised.

Fear Effect Of Sub-Zero Temps On Bare Wheat Fields

Light vegetable cover on wheat fields failed to hold recent snowfall, and many were bare — or nearly so — during the sub-zero temperatures which followed the last storm, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said Tuesday.

In some areas of the southern and central parts of the state had rain and sleet which covered what fields son, Nuckolls and others nearby.

Snow cover on wheat fields was more uniform in the Panhandle and some important wheat counties in the cover was beneficial.

During the past week heavy inroads were made on grain and feed supplies. Many pastures, ranges and stalk fields were blanketed with heavy snow, making grazing impossible.

Some loss of livestock occurred, but the losses were light.

The major farm activities last week were concentrated on digging out of snow drifts and caring for livestock.

Dear Abby-
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl, 15, who, everybody says, is a "very nice girl." But, Abby, I'm not as nice as they think I am.

I let a guy pick me up in a movie one night. I was with my girl friend and he was with another boy. They had a car and offered us a ride home. We parked and my girl friend and I made out with him and his friend. We aren't "pick-ups" and I don't know what made us act like it that night. I've met him several times (on the sneak) since, but he never takes me anywhere except to park.

He says he loves me but he won't meet my parents. I think about him night and day. How can I make it a respectable relationship if he refuses to meet my parents? I feel so dirty and sneaky.

NOT SO NICE

DEAR NOT SO NICE: Even a "nice" girl can act on an impulse and behave foolishly ONCE. But you cheapen yourself when you continue to meet him on the sly and make out with him; that's all he wants you for. A boy who refuses to meet a girl's parents is strictly bad news. DO NOT see him again.

face her problem squarely. I can think of no better (or cheaper) solution than to get her to an "A.A." meeting. Uncontrolled drinking is an illness. It's no disgrace to be ill. Good luck!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I like a boy and he says he likes me, but listen to this: When I ask him to walk me home, he says he has to stay after school. But five minutes after I get home, I see him walking right past my house. He says he has to do his homework. Then I see him standing around outside doing nothing. He is 14 and so am I. How can I win his love?

DEE DEE

DEAR DEE DEE: He's shy, immature, bashful, timid, self-conscious and 14. There is only one cure for this. Wait until he's 15.

Opening lead — eight of hearts.

This hand comes from a par contest. It contains one of the toughest defensive plays we've ever seen. It is not surprising that most of the participants who held the East hand failed to pass their test.

From then on the declarer's cause was hopeless. He had to attack clubs. West won the first club lead and returned a heart. East, holding the K-Q-10-4 over dummy's A-J-7, was able to establish his suit. Eventually, declarer went down one, losing three hearts and two clubs.

Since dummy still had the A-J left, a heart continuation by East was out of the question. So East returned a spade. South won, forced out the ace of clubs, and made three notrump, losing altogether two hearts and two clubs.

Winning the heart, returned a spade. Declarer won in dummy and led a club, taken by West with the king. A heart was returned, the seven losing to the queen.

Dear Mrs. B. K. R. asks:

"We have two interesting old sea chests with attractive handles and I would like to use them in our living room either as coffee tables or extra seats. They would fit in (it seems) with my Early American-modern room. My young daughter thinks they're 'corny.' Help me!"

Dear Mrs. B. K. R.:

Coffee table is a good idea. I have also seen a charming room where chests such as you describe were used near the fireplace and they were conversation pieces. If you know their history it makes it twice as effective. You no doubt will find that your daughter and her friends will be the ones most often sitting on those "corny" pieces.

Mrs. J. B. asks:

"Let's have something on window dressing. For those of us who are tired of draperies. An ordinary house with no view. Living quarters in front. Draperies seem to leave the house looking bleak from the street."

Dear Mrs. J. B.:

There are any number of substitutes for draperies — gay printed cloth window shades, match stick shades, vertical (or horizontal) slatted blinds, shutters, cafe curtains (both upper and lower sashes), cafe curtains with top ruffle, combination shutters and see-through curtains, shelves in the windows for plants or colored bottles and glass. Do visit your largest store where most or all of these ideas would be on display. And don't be afraid to try something new and different.

Declarer played the nine from dummy to keep the suit doubly controlled. He knew that if East took the ten and returned a heart, whether high or low, dummy would acquire a second heart stopper.

East's double had a conventional meaning. Coming out of the blue, it requested West not to make his normal lead (spades), but to lead the first suit bid by dummy. So West, dutifully, opened the eight of hearts.

Problems Linked To Life 'Transitions'

For every change middle-aged and young people experience during "transition in life," there are accompanying problems. For older people, the problems are highly magnified.

MacArthur Is 80, Has Party ...NIXON VISITS

New York (AP) — Vice President Nixon took time out from a tight schedule Tuesday to wish General of the Army Douglas MacArthur a happy 80th birthday.

Nixon and his wife flew here in a chartered plane for his speech Tuesday night at a sports award dinner at the Plaza Hotel.

Enroute from Laguardia Field by limousine, Nixon decided to stop off at the Waldorf-Astoria. There he and his wife spent half an hour with MacArthur and his wife.

An aide said MacArthur had a few reminiscent anecdotes for the Vice President, after which the two men talked politics and defense matters. What they said was not divulged.

MacArthur spent a quiet day in his Waldorf Towers apartment, as birthday messages poured in from world leaders.

As is his custom on his birthday, the general held a reunion Tuesday night with old friends and members of his World War II and Korean staffs.

Among those honoring MacArthur during the evening was former President Herbert Hoover, under whom the general served as chief of staff.

Rogers Hints Further Action In Lynch Case

Washington (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers said Tuesday the failure of state and federal grand juries to return indictments in the lynching of Mack Charles Parker, Mississippi Negro was a "serious injustice."

Rogers told a news conference the Justice Department still has the case under consideration, but declined to be drawn into discussion of what further action the federal government might take.

Parker, 23, was dragged from his jail cell at Poplarville, Miss., last April 25 by a group of hooded men. Ten days later his bullet-pierced body was recovered from the Pearl River.

The Justice Department presented the lynching case to a federal grand jury at Biloxi, Miss., after a state grand jury returned no indictments. The federal grand jury ended its investigation Jan. 14 without returning any indictments.

panel discussion during the second day of the Nebraska Town and Country Church Conference at the University of Nebraska Tuesday.

In summing up, Dr. William Cascini, panel moderator of Wesleyan University, told the 200 laymen, ministers and teachers attending that the problems of the aged in the state are getting more serious.

He cited involuntary retirement at age 65, the aged's remaining knowledge and ability to produce despite retirement, and the great number that will soon retire as reasons why ways and means for making their adjustment easier is a paramount consideration.

"Ways must be found to better both their social lives and relieve their economic and physical problems," he said.

Dr. Cascini said 3 "experts" on old age were chosen for the panel from various organizations serving the aged in the state.

—Emily Brickley, director of the division of public health nursing discussed nursing home problems in caring for those who are ill.

—Dr. William Goldbeck, director of the Good Samaritan Village, Hastings, discussed the facilities for the aged in institutions such as the one he directs;

—Ethel Kueck, a director of the Nebraska Methodist Interboard Council, discussed ways in which church men could better serve the aged.

JUSTICE SINKS TEETH IN CASE

Milwaukee, Wis.—Judge Robert J. Miech has sampled two T-bone steaks to decide if a beef buyer's "beef" is legitimate.

The steaks, about 1½ inches thick, were served in the juror's dining room of the Milwaukee Safety Building. The buyer, Charles Rades, 35, had refused to pay farmer Dan Soshinske, 63, a $121.26 bill for a side of beef. He said the meat was so tough his family couldn't eat it.

Soschinske sued Rades for payment of the 285 pounds of meat at 47c a pound. He argued that the beef just wasn't properly cooked.

Both sides agreed that two impounded steaks, certified by a butcher to be from the same side of beef, be expertly prepared by Milwaukee County Jail chef Myron Kuczynski. The decision of tenderness was left to the judge.

but this was blamed on his nervous condition (you can't blame him—he was being interrogated by more than 100 police officers).

The suspect, Detective Lowell Sellmeyer, was helping Lt. Robert Butcher illustrate the use of the polygraph.

Speaking on the problems involved in lie detection work, Lt. Butcher, one of 3 persons in Lincoln trained to run a polygraph, told the group that the lie detector could never replace proper field investigation.

"It's no cure-all," he said. "The polygraph will never supplant good field investigation and has no place, in fact, as a mechanical investigator. It can offer its greatest service by being used to support the qualified investigator in saving him from expending needless time," Butcher asserted.

Capt. E. H. Masters, director of safety and security, University of Nebraska, spoke to the group on homicide investigation.

The Police School moves into its 3rd day Wednesday with Federal Bureau of Investigation officers leading the discussions.

It was all a part of second day activities of the 15th annual Lincoln Police Training School being held at the University of Nebraska College of Law.

NU Ag Meet Set For Veterinarians

The Nebraska College of Agriculture will be host to area veterinarians at a swine repopulation conference, Feb. 3-5, according to Dr. E. Crosby Howe, Extension animal hygienist at the College.

"The transition of 'disease-free' pigs for swine repopulation from the experimental stage to the applied stage has been more rapid than anyone expected," Dr. Howe notes. "This conference is designed to familiarize veterinarians with all aspects of swine repopulation so that they may better advise and assist clients whose interest has been excited by recent farm press articles."

THESE HERE ARE ALL HOUSEWIVES

Estelle Donovan, Gladys Hamilton, Capt. Margaret Wise, Mary Lou Dearing and Ruth Klein (from left) were 5 gals who joined in the team division of the Lincoln city bowling tournament Tuesday night.

Rolling for the R. L. White team of the Hollywood Housewives League, the gals got well into the money with a 2656 handicap showing. (Star Photo).

Chief Winter Roster Lists 11 From 1959

. . . TEUNIS, BLOODWORTH AMONG 5 PITCHERS

Lincoln baseball fans may see some familiar faces next summer when the Chiefs open the 1960 Three-I League season—or they may not.

It all depends on what transpires at the Chicago White Sox farm camp at Hollywood, Fla., during spring training.

The Chiefs winter roster—announced by General Manager Roger Bottorff—lists 11 players who saw service with Ira Hutchinson's 1959 team.

However, the winter roster is primarily for administrative purposes and it does not mean that players assigned to Lincoln now necessarily will remain with the Chiefs.

Changes Probable

Some may move up during the spring, some may drop, some may retire and new players turned up in the White Sox camp will win jobs with Hutchinson's crew.

Lincoln's winter roster includes 5 pitchers, 3 infielders, 2 outfielders and a catcher who were here last summer.

Top pitcher is Ron Teunis (9-6) who left the club in August to enter the service. Also listed is Ron (Perfect Game) Bloodworth who posted a 10-15 mark.

Other pitchers include Fritz Ackley, lefthander Phil Groth, and Jim Host, the rookie sent up from Holdrege last July.

Second, third, and shortstop are represented by Chuck Lehman, Don Bacon, and Pug Williamson.

Lehman is currently undergoing an operation on his left knee. He should be ready for action by spring training time, however.

Top Shortstop

Bacon missed only two games in '59 and led all other regular shortstops in the Three-I League infielding with a .942 percentage. He was also second in the league with 58 double plays. Williamson is presently enrolled in Oklahoma State as an engineering student. He will join the Chiefs in spring camp after the first term ends at school.

Has 'Rabbit Ears'

Ted has also been known for his "rabbit ears."

Often berated by fans for his occasional slumps and criticized for his attitudes, Williams has retaliated in ways sometimes unbecoming a ballplayer. Once he drew a $5,000 fine for spitting at a fan.

Now in the twilight of his career and following a miserable season in 1959, it would seem strange that Williams would sign up for the 1960 season. But he did. Why? It's simple—he loves baseball.

When age finally dictates his retirement

It's been 20 years since Williams trotted out to left field in Boston's Fenway Park. In that time he has established himself as one of the game's all-time great hitters. His tremendous .406 in 1941 speaks for itself.

Granting it was only exhibition baseball—Minneapolis vs. Boston last summer—but to watch and listen to the enthusiastic Williams you might have thought he had just finished belting his first major league homerun.

Moments earlier Ted had teed off on Willard Nixon's 3-0 pitch and sent it high and deep over the right field fence for a 3-run homer.

Doubles Next Time

The next time at bat he picked one of Nixon's deliveries and sent it screaming down the left field foul line for a stand-up double.

Housewives Bowling Loops Are Booming

The good old days? When were they?

Used to be housewives congregated over the backyard fence to exchange the latest gossip.

Crave Action Now

They still have their "bridge" parties and their coffeees, but nowadays the little ladies are craving action, too.

Ship 'em out to the bowling alleys, men, ship 'em out.

There they'll be able to join the other gals competing regularly in 21 housewives leagues.

Progressive bowling proprietors have thought of everything in this day and age.

Have Nurseries, Too

Most of Lincoln's modern lanes include nursery facilities, a mighty big convenience — and a respite — for mom.

The R. L. White team of the Hollywood Housewives No. 1 League was one of a housewives group testing their talents Tuesday night.

They did right well, too. Their 2650 handicap total put them in among the leaders in the 9-day city tournament.

Mmes. James Donovan, Charles Hamilton, Robert Wise, Richard Dearing and George B. Klein typify femmes on the lanes.

Evenings At Home

They average 39.8 years in age and 135.8 in knocking down pins.

Some of the bowling's biggest family promoters the gals prefer bowling during the day and spend evenings at home.

As one of 'em said, "This is one thing that I have in common with my husband which we do separately."

That's just one of the reasons why housewives leagues have boomed steadily in their 4 years' existence.

The tournament is at its halfway point.

At the end of Tuesday

MIDLAND STAR IS INELIGIBLE

Lincoln Star Special

Frémont — Midland College's stock in the Nebraska College Conference cage race has taken a dip.

The Warriors, currently in the thick of a dogfight for first place, lost 5-10 junior Bob Frieze through ineligibility.

Frieze, a regular, did not pass 12 semester hours of classroom work as required by conference rules.

The Council Bluffs competitor had also been regular shortstop on the Midland baseball club.

Stocks Rally After Slump

New York (P)—The stock market, overcoming an early slump Tuesday, showed flashes of strength and closed with an irregular price pattern.

The popular market yardsticks were all up slightly but losers outnumbered gainers by a small margin.

According to the bullish contingent it was that volume reached three million shares for the first time in 5 sessions. Steels, motors and airlines advanced. Some chemicals, utilities, electronics and rails were up, although the carriers were off on average.

The market was mixed at the start as it apparently was deadlocked. Then Monday's gains were added to the total. Most stocks were steady. Toward the end of the first hour, however, it sagged badly. Prices met vigorous support by mid session. The list was no worse than mixed.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose .77 to 639.49.

Volume rose to 3,060,000 shares from 2,780,000 Monday, and the largest since 3,100,000 were traded Jan. 11, which was the last previous day turnover amounted to three million shares or better.

Brokers were inclined to regard the performance as chiefly "technical." One observed that persistent selling of auto shares seemed to have ended and this helped to bring the market back.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 20 cents to $250.50 with industrials up 30 cents, rails down 70 cents and metals up 10 cents.

On the other hand, traders outnumbered gainers by 496 to 480. New highs for 1959-60 totaled 5 and new lows 40.

In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, Bobby, who was so cruelly taken from us 2 years ago today. Dear Bobby, we are lonely. We miss you, we are sad. Our sorrow has not lessened. Since the day you were taken away, in the home you are fondly remembered.

Sweet memories cling to your name. We miss you, we are sorry. And we love you in our hearts just the same.

Our hearts is ever a picture. More precious than silver or gold. Of the son and the brother we cherishes. And whose memory will never grow old.

See your grave we often wander. Flowers we place with tender care. And we feel your presence near us.

Stanton Delaplane's POSTCARD

Jetting down to Los Angeles the other night (we commute between Angeltown and San Francisco in 50 minutes these high-powered days).

Los Angeles is the most jeweled of cities from the air on a clear night. This night was crisp and cold. The town was packed with our distinguished colleagues for we have a very distinguished murder trial.

There is nothing like a rousing tale of passion to impress the morning Wheaties.

You can tell a first-class murder trial by the company it keeps. The sobs sisters and picture snatches; mystery writers, fashion columnists, brain writers and TV scenarists outnumber the local daily reporters 10 to 1.

The daily men write the meat-and-potatoes story. Like:

Q: "What did she say about money?"

A: "She said, 'That's too much.' And I told her, 'Not for killing somebody.' She said, 'Well, $1000 was more what I had in mind.'"

The specialty writers are a different breed. We are the people with the sugary squeeze bag, putting curlicue icing on the cake.

There is a good deal of speculation that the defendant lady's hair is losing its henna rinse. That is the kind of day dream we work with.

We cover trials these days out of the more chic bistros where the specialty press thinks up the think pieces.

It is a much better life than when I was doing ice-pick capers for the dailies. Eating hamburgers with one hand while I typed out the new lead for the late edition with the other.

I am a specialty man myself now. And it shows that hard work and free enterprise are rewarded. I toil not, neither do I spin. I listen to my colleagues:

"I got it straight from the matron. She's put on 15 pounds since she was in jail."

The judge is a sober referee of procedure. One of these days, the specialists will have at him. Some dull day when arguments and objections fill the air.

They will analyze this jurist in a thoughtful way.

It is tough to be a Judge. This trial involves two ladies: the lady who was scolded; the lady who is on trial for love and midsummer madness.

Ladies vote in our enlightened Nation, Judges are elected.

We hope the specialty writers will write that the Judge is a gentleman.

It is different when a Judge first gets in the business. He is usually in a police court. He can make little quips — the bailiffs should get a small laugh once in awhile. He can show a certain amount of human indignation at the attorneys.

I read about a lady in Geneva, Switzerland. "Babylon" Baud is a witness in a murder trial. She says the jealous defendant forced her at gunpoint to pose for pictures referred to as "art studies."

"You do not appear to have a very surprised expression in these photographs," said the Swiss Judge.

The Swiss in their wisdom have denied the vote to Swiss ladies.

In America, a crack like that would send the Judge back to the old tort business.

Anyway, I stopped long enough to have dinner at the stylish Villa Capri and get

YOUR INCOME TAX

Your Wife Worth $600 Exemption

(Editor's Note: This is the ninth and final article in the federal income tax series.)

A taxpayer is permitted to claim a $600 exemption for his wife, in most cases, but in no case may he claim her as a dependent on his income tax return.

James L. McCrory, director of internal revenue for the Omaha district, explained that a husband may claim his wife's $600 exemption on his separate return only if she had no income and was not the dependent of another taxpayer.

Husband and wife may file a joint return even though one of them earned all the family income for the year. But if each had some income, they may either file a joint return or they may file separate returns.

If they choose to file separate returns, the husband may claim no exemption for his wife and vice versa.

For example, if your wife earned $400 from which $80 income tax was withheld, and your young daughter earned $300 from which $70 was withheld, your daughter could file for a refund and still be claimed as a dependent but your wife cannot file a separate return to claim her $80 without your losing her as an exemption.

Since a separate return by the wife means the loss of an exemption to her husband, McCrory explained, it is almost always to the advantage of married taxpayers to file a joint return when the wife's income is $600 or less.

If the husband and wife do not file a joint return, either one may qualify as a dependent of some other taxpayer.

For example, suppose your married daughter lives with you and you furnish all her support. If your daughter and her husband do not file a joint return, you may claim her as a dependent.

RABIES CASE IS REPORTED

The State Health Department Tuesday reported a single case of animal rabies for the past week in Nebraska.

The case brought the number this year to three compared to none at this time last year.

Involved was a dog from Hamilton County.

The police slate remained clean another week with no cases reported since the first of the year. There were none at this time last year either.

Seed Potato Output Up 2%

Nebraska growers produced an estimated 386,512 hundredweight of certified seed potatoes in 1959, an increase of about 2% over the previous year, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported.

Red Lasoda accounted for 59% of the 1959 production. The Dazoo variety accounted for about 10% and Progress accounted for 6%.

Fall potato stocks in the hands of growers and dealers in Nebraska as of Jan. 1 totaled 1,250,000 hundredweight, compared with 1,300,000 hundredweight a year earlier, the division said.

while the smaller 1958 production needed 3,130 acres.

The totals cover potatoes held by growers and dealers for all purposes.

The Jan. 1 holdings represent about 60% of the 1959 crop.

Florence, Italy (P) — Nobody has accepted the City Council's offer to give away the thousands of pigeons that decorate and discolor Florence's monuments.

Scottsbluff Park Post To Hutchison

Scottsbluff (P) — City Manager Carsten Leikvold announced the appointment of Calvin Hutchison, 33, of Scottsbluff as city park superintendent succeeding Arnold Gesterfield.

Hutchison, now a foreman, has been with the park department since 1948. Gesterfield has resigned effective Feb. 8 to become general manager of the Champaign, Ill., park district.

The coast line of the Island of Nera Berlin is 3 times longer than the entire Pacific coastline of California, Oregon and Washington states.
